The metal ion-binding abilities of the N-terminal hinge region of protein A have been studied. With the use of circular dichroism (CD) spectroscopy and isothermal calorimetry (ITC), the effects of metal ion binding on the conformation of the polypeptide chain and thermodynamics of the metal ion-protein A interaction were investigated. It was found that a single zinc ion binds to this region of the protein at a 1:1 ratio. The equilibrium constants for the interaction of protein A with zinc ion and cobalt ion were found to be $3.4 \pm 0.1 \times 10^4$ and $5.6 \pm 0.2 \times 10^4$ M⁻¹, respectively. The presence of zinc ion induces a small increase in the helix content of the polypeptide chain and induces an enthalpy-entropy compensation in the process of protein A-metal ion interaction.Exeter, New Hampshire The Best of Exeter Londonderry is an ancient village that occupies a beautiful setting. The river was named for Jacques Philippe-Andrés de Chastelain de Puységur, who was the French ambassador to the United States of America in the mid-1700s. The river is divided by the city of Auburn, the county seat of Androscoggin County, into the West Branch and East Branch. The cities of Lewiston and Belfast are located on either side of the river. The name Asquam is an early French form of the river. Course The Androscoggin River begins in the town of Bristol on a steep hillside, above the outlet of Smalley Pond, which is the lowest point of elevation in the river's watershed. From Bristol, the river flows generally eastward through a deep narrow valley to the town of Fryeburg, where it is joined by the East Branch. From there, the river enters Androscoggin County and a gorge, the Locks and Dam Recreation Area, before entering a narrow valley near the center of Androscoggin. The river has three major waterfalls: Brown's Falls, Stevens Falls, and Hart's Falls. Near the center of Androscoggin, the river broadens significantly before joining the North Branch at a narrow point about southeast
