It's a bit tricky because the SVG is part of a responsive layout. Here's an image of what I want to achieve: Actually the design is done by a designer, so I need to be able to resize the SVG element. I read some answers here and tried solutions, but it didn't work for me, so I'm asking here. I have a vist page, and I use this CSS for embedding the SVG. `.social-dots svg { display: block; width: 130px; height: 130px; }` And the HTML: I tried a few things, first I tried to remove the width and height from `.social-dots svg`, but it didn't work. Then I tried to remove width and height from `circle dot`, but it also didn't work. Now I'm out of ideas. Any help or solutions would be appreciated. A: The first problem is that `svg` doesn't have a defined width and height, so you need a fallback in order to establish a size for the container. In your case, you need to change the dot `circle` to use a width of 100% and height of 100%, and then you can remove the `height/width` from the container. Your next issue is that you should remove the `viewBox` from the `circle`. This element needs to be set on the `svg` tag instead. Here's your updated code: `.social-dots svg { display: block; width: 80%; height: 100%; } circle { width: 100%; height: 100%`

Get the latest drivers for your dongle, search by serial number and make sure you have the latest hardware drivers installed. Driver Troubleshooting Tips. If the driver in question is for a generic USB device type, such as a webcam or other USB peripheral, you need to find the exact model of the dongle as listed in its documentation. Driver: My PPA provides updated versions of the latest drivers for a variety of devices from generic USB devices, to printers, wifi and video adapters. We have a vast amount of users who use this source, thus it is not uncommon for bugs to appear, which can sometimes cause a problem in running the software. Highlights of the latest releases: v: : Video Drivers. Audio Drivers. USB Drivers. Printers drivers. Wifi drivers. Graphics drivers. Cameras Drivers. Please use this repository as a last resort if other drivers fail to work. Drivers for "My PPA" My PPA has a small amount of applications that are usually updated regularly, as well as applications that might not receive regular updates, such as video drivers. Whenever a new major version of a driver is available, you can be sure it will make it into our repository. If you are using a current minor version of the driver, you might be able to make further changes to the driver as newer versions come out. User Profile My PPA has a small number of users who are running older Ubuntu releases, sometimes even as far back as Ubuntu 6.06 LTS. These users are not eligible for automatic updates and cannot access the latest drivers. However, you can still obtain the latest drivers for these users by downloading and using the "My PPA" repository as the one and only source of software updates. Getting started You should read the following documents before deciding to use the repository: How to add the PPA Update your sources Before adding the PPA and updating from an older Ubuntu release, make sure you have up to date software available from the following locations: Main Ubuntu repositories: The main Ubuntu repositories are for users of Ubuntu 10.04 LTS and above. These releases have updated versions of the main software packages. They are used by users of recent versions of
