Third person view (Where you see the fighters from the side) gameplay is really fun!Q: Rails controller access class variable after get In my project, I have a route that calls a controller method that in turn receives a model from a pre-saved filtered object and calls a method in that model. The problem is that after the get, the model variable is no longer available. How do I fix this? Routes: match "update_table" => "filter", :to => 'filter#update_table' Controller: def update_table @table = Models::Table.first @table.update end Model: class Filter , no offense." "It's a pretty good party." "We're gonna have a good time." "I just want to live for a bit." "Oh, come on." "You can't live forever." "I think I might." "I'm gonna stick around... and see
