Field of the Invention This invention relates to a process for producing a group of an oxa-dicarbonyl compound, which comprises reacting a dioxolane-2,5-dione derivative with carbon monoxide in the presence of a heterogeneous catalyst comprising an alkali metal sulfide, a salt or complex of an alkali metal or rare earth element and an imide compound. 2. Description of the Prior Art It has been known to produce 1,3-dioxane-4,6-dione, for example, by the following process: ##STR2## However, the yield of 1,3-dioxane-4,6-dione is low and a large amount of 1,3-dioxane-2,5-dione is formed as a by-product and the conversion into 1,3-dioxane-4,6-dione is also poor. The 1,3-dioxane-2,5-dione formed during the reaction cannot be converted into 1,3-dioxane-4,6-dione at a good rate, so that the yield of 1,3-dioxane-4,6-dione cannot be increased. When dioxolane-2,5-dione is subjected to a reaction with carbon monoxide in the presence of a nickel catalyst, hexahydro-1,3-dioxane-2,5-dione is formed but the yield of 1,3-dioxane-4,6-dione is still too low to be practicably utilized.
